SUMMARY

H.R. 6362 transfers the authority to appoint administrative patent judges and administrative trademark judges from the Director of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office to the Secretary of Commerce. The bill requires that the Secretary consult with the Director when making such appointments.

BACKGROUND

In 1991, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in Freytag v. Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, that the Director of the U.S. Patent Office is not the chief official of the U.S. Patent Office and that the Office is under the authority of the Department of Commerce.

Under current law, the Director of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office has the authority to appoint administrative patent judges and administrative trademark judges. Debate has ensued as to whether the Director has the constitutional authority to make such appointments.

COST

The Congressional Budget Office did not have a cost estimate available for H.R. 6362 as of July 21, 2008.
